PECO NATURAL GAS COMPARE COSTS/SAVINGS WITH OUR ONLINE CALCULATORS

Are you in the market for a new hot water heater, clothes dryer or HVAC equipment? Check out PECO's handy online calculators to see how energy-efficient natural gas appliances can help you save money. Visit peco.com/waystosave

Natural gas is the cleanest burning fossil fuel. It is highly efficient and emits considerably less carbon dioxide, sulfur, nitrogen, and particulates. This results in a smaller environmental impact compared to other energy sources.

The screenshot shows the PECO website interface for the 'Clothes Dryer' calculator. The page title is 'Clothes Dryer' and it includes a navigation menu with options like 'My Account', 'Outages', 'Ways to Save', 'Smart Energy', and 'Safety & Community'. The main content area is titled 'Estimate the Annual Costs of your Clothes Dryer's Energy Use' and features a slider to match the number of people in the home (set to 3). Below the slider, there are input fields for fuel rates: Natural Gas $/CCF (0.750), Propane $/Gallon (2.160), and Electric $/kWh (0.140). To the right, a bar chart titled 'ANNUAL CLOTHES DRYER COSTS' compares the costs for Natural Gas, Propane, and Electric. The chart shows that Natural Gas is the most cost-effective option, followed by Propane, and then Electric.

Energy Source	Annual Cost (Estimated)
Natural Gas	~$100
Propane	~$850
Electric	~$900

On the cover: Philadelphia has a wealth of cherry blossoms of varying types that add touches of pink, white and purple to skyline views and the already-picturesque waterfronts of the Schuylkill and Delaware rivers. Typically, cherry blossoms bloom in this area around April. For more information on cherry blossoms and other blooming public landscapes, visit the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society at phsonline.org.
